DESCRIPTION

Short description

Experience the future of voice gaming with the premiere episode of Starfinder, a first-of-its kind voice role-playing game that transforms your Alexa into a skilled Game Master guide to this action-packed science-fantasy experience.

Start your journey on the futuristic streets of Absalom Station, a sprawling space station where you will encounter a bizarre cast of rogue human misfits and menacing alien creatures, all ready to protect their turf at any cost. Grab your hail pistol, get your imagination ready, and prepare to stand tall against the treachery that awaits deep inside the station’s underbelly, in corridors the downtrodden locals call the Spike.

<Extend backstory into long description for Fire devices – this could change to a complete list of all episodes once they are available or be removed>

You grew up in a place called Downlow, a working-class sector in the Spike that extends below the station’s radial plane. The worst of the worst live in the half-explored Ghost Levels within the depths of the Spike, an area abandoned for years and infested with all sorts of mutant monstrosities.

You’ve always dreamed of leading a life of adventure, and that is why you sought out the Starfinder Society – an organization of exceptional galaxy explorers – for a chance to face the dangers of the Spike and, one day, to explore the Pact Worlds’ solar system.

A few weeks ago, valuable parts started vanishing from the recycling yards in the Botscrap neighborhood of the Spike, and nearby transportation corridors turned up badly damaged. Local residents’ livelihoods are at stake. But worse, reports are circulating that some locals have been killed, and that several repair workers were fatally ambushed when trying to reach the damaged equipment. Someone – or something – has made Downlow a hunting ground. The Starfinder Society has put its faith in you to go on a quest and uncover what’s lurking in the Spike.

Do you have what it takes to survive the quest? Select your character type, weaponry, and armor — and get ready to talk yourself through the most dangerous adventure of your life.
